DETAILED ACTION

Double Patenting

1. The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. See In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and, In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent is shown to be commonly owned with this application. See 37 CFR 1.130(b).

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

2. Claims 1-20 are rejected under the judicially created doctrine of obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-21 of U.S. Patent No. 6,806,809 in view of Kimbrough et al [5,579,228]. The claims of the '809 patent recite all the limitations of the claims present application, except for the use of a hitch angle sensor as opposed to a yaw rate sensor recited in the claims of the present application. Kimbrough et al (5,579,228), on the other hand, discloses a steering control system for trailers. According to Kimbrough et al, there is provided a relationship between the hitch angle and the yaw rate of the trailer. See column 18, in particular, lines 64-67 and column 19, lines 1-7. Thus, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skilled in the art at the time of the invention to substitute the hitch angle of the above mentioned patent by incorporating the yaw rate from the steering control system for trailers of Kimbrough et al because such modification, as suggested by Kimbrough et al, would improve stability, maneuverability, and followability of the trailer and the vehicle, while reducing jackknifing.

Conclusion

3. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
